Remote Sensing of the European Seas

Here is a review of the current potential of Earth Observations that devotes particular attention to the challenges posed by the European Seas. The assessment of surface parameters by means of passive techniques – which measure reflected visible and near-infrared sunlight, or surface emissions in the thermal infrared or microwave spectral regions – is addressed. Active techniques – which use transmitted impulses of visible or microwave radiation – are covered as well.

· Focus on the issues, peculiarities and special challenges of the European Seas · Complete and thorough review of the current Earth Observations potential · Section devoted to multi-technique assessments of the marine environment
